

The Wrong Room

CLASSROOM · OUÇA O ÁUDIO ANTES DE LER (VERSÃO DIGITAL) · TRANSCRIÇÃO NO FINAL DESTA PDF

READ The Wrong Room

Every bold, underlined sentence uses a verb or adjective + preposition from this round.

Sena arrived at the hotel very late. She was tired after a long flight. She gave her name at the desk. The receptionist looked at the screen, then looked again. The receptionist was confused about the reservation.¹

The reservation was under a different name — Rio Alencar. Rio was Sena's business partner. He had booked the trip for both of them, but only his name was in the system. Sena stayed calm. She insisted on getting a room immediately.²

Sena had to wait for the manager. Ten minutes passed. Then twenty. She was tired of waiting.³ Finally, the manager arrived with a room — but not the one she had booked. It was smaller, on the third floor, with no view. Sena wasn't keen on the room at all.⁴

Sena agreed to stay in the small room for one night. The manager promised to fix the reservation before Rio arrived. Sena was excited about seeing Rio the next day.⁵ She believed the manager, and finally went to sleep.

Sena woke up early and went down to the front desk before breakfast. The manager smiled and said the reservation was already fixed. Sena had stayed calm all night, even in a small room with no view. She felt capable of handling anything after that.⁶

That afternoon, Rio finally arrived at the hotel. He found Sena in the lobby and apologized right away. He admitted he'd been involved in the mistake with the booking.⁷ Sena laughed and told him not to worry. She was not angry with him⁸ — the trip was only just beginning.

Glossário · vocabulário novo desta unidade no texto

- 1. confused about — não entender algo claramente · confuso(a) com · ～について混乱している
- 2. insist on — recusar-se a aceitar "não" · insistir em · ～を主張する
- 3. tired of — cansado(a) de algo repetitivo · cansado(a) de · ～にうんざりしている
- 4. keen on — animado(a), interessado(a) em · animado(a)/interessado(a) em · ～に熱心
- 5. excited about — animado(a), esperando algo bom · animado(a) com · ～にわくわくする
- 6. capable of — ter a habilidade de fazer algo · capaz de · ～する能力がある
- 7. involved in — ter participação em algo · envolvido(a) em · ～に関わっている
- 8. angry with (someone) — bravo(a) com uma pessoa · bravo(a) com · (人) に怒っている

02 Turn It Into a Question

8 items

The underlined part of each quote is what becomes "what" in your question. The (+ doing) tag means the missing part is an action.

1. "The receptionist was confused about the reservation."

What was the receptionist confused about?

2. "She insisted on getting a room immediately." (+ doing)

What did Sena insist on doing?

3. "She was tired of waiting."

What was she tired of?

4. "Sena wasn't keen on the room."

What wasn't Sena keen on?

5. "Sena was excited about seeing Rio the next day." (+ doing)

What was Sena excited about doing?

6. "She felt capable of handling anything after that." (+ doing)

What did Sena feel capable of doing?

7. "He'd been involved in the mistake with the booking."

What had Rio been involved in?

8. "She was not angry with him."

Who was Sena not angry with?

03 Check What Happened

6 items

Comprehension questions. The answer is always in the text.

1. Why was the receptionist confused when Sena arrived?

Because the reservation was under a different name — Rio's, not Sena's.

2. Who is Rio, and what does he have to do with the mix-up?

Rio is Sena's business partner. He booked the trip, but only his name went into the system.

3. What did Sena insist on before agreeing to the smaller room?

She insisted on getting a room immediately, and on the reservation being fixed before Rio arrived.

4. Did Sena get what she originally booked? How do you know?

No — she got a smaller room, on the third floor, with no view.

5. How did Sena feel about herself the next morning?

She felt capable of handling anything after that.

6. What did Rio say when he arrived? Was Sena angry with him?

He admitted he'd been involved in the mistake. No — Sena was not angry with him.

Use at least three dependent prepositions from this round while you talk.

Has something like this ever happened to you — a booking mix-up, a wrong room? What were you confused about in the moment?

Think of a place you visited that you weren't keen on at first. What changed your mind, if anything?

Are you the kind of traveler who insists on getting exactly what was booked, or the kind who copes with whatever works out?

Think of a time something went wrong and you were involved in the mistake — even a small part of it. Were you angry with yourself?

Arrival. Sena arrived at the hotel very late. She was tired after a long flight. She gave her name at the desk. The receptionist looked at the screen, then looked again. The receptionist was confused about the reservation.

The Mix-Up. The reservation was under a different name — Rio Alencar. Rio was Sena's business partner. He had booked the trip for both of them, but only his name was in the system. Sena stayed calm. She insisted on getting a room immediately.

The Wait. Sena had to wait for the manager. Ten minutes passed. Then twenty. She was tired of waiting. Finally, the manager arrived with a room — but not the one she had booked. It was smaller, on the third floor, with no view. Sena wasn't keen on the room at all.

Resolution. Sena agreed to stay in the small room for one night. The manager promised to fix the reservation before Rio arrived. Sena was excited about seeing Rio the next day. She believed the manager, and finally went to sleep.

The Next Morning. Sena woke up early and went down to the front desk before breakfast. The manager smiled and said the reservation was already fixed. Sena had stayed calm all night, even in a small room with no view. She felt capable of handling anything after that.

Rio Arrives. That afternoon, Rio finally arrived at the hotel. He found Sena in the lobby and apologized right away. He admitted he'd been involved in the mistake with the booking. Sena laughed and told him not to worry. She was not angry with him — the trip was only just beginning.

Answer Key · Gabarito do Professor

02 · TURN IT INTO A QUESTION

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. What was the receptionist confused about? | 5. What was Sena excited about doing? |
| 2. What did Sena insist on doing? | 6. What did Sena feel capable of doing? |
| 3. What was she tired of? | 7. What had Rio been involved in? |
| 4. What wasn't Sena keen on? | 8. Who was Sena not angry with? |

03 · CHECK WHAT HAPPENED

1. Because the reservation was under a different name — Rio's, not Sena's.
2. Rio is Sena's business partner. He booked the trip, but only his name went into the system.
3. She insisted on getting a room immediately, and on the reservation being fixed before Rio arrived.
4. No — she got a smaller room, on the third floor, with no view.
5. She felt capable of handling anything after that.
6. He admitted he'd been involved in the mistake. No — Sena was not angry with him.