Tourist or traveler?

1 Most people use the words “tourist” and “traveler” as if they meant the same thing. They do not, at least not for everyone.

2 A tourist usually plans everything before leaving home. The flights, the hotel and the tours are booked months early, so nothing is left to chance. Tourists often stay in places made for visitors, and they want to see the famous sights: the tower, the museum, the beach. This is not a bad way to travel. For someone with only one week of vacation, it saves time and avoids stress.

3 A traveler, on the other hand, tends to leave more things open. Many travelers buy only the first ticket and decide the rest on the road. Although they also visit famous places, they spend more time in neighborhoods where local people live, eat and work. They may take a slow bus instead of a plane, even though it is not the fastest option, because the trip itself is part of the experience. Of course, this freedom has a price: plans change, buses are late, and sometimes the night ends in the wrong town.

4 Interestingly, the difference is not really about money or about how far you go. A person can spend a month in a small village in their own country and be a traveler, while another person can visit ten countries in ten days and never leave the tourist route. What matters most is attitude. A traveler asks locals for advice, tries to learn a few words of the language, and accepts that something may go wrong. A tourist wants the trip to match the photos in the brochure.

5 In the end, most of us are a bit of both. Some days we want a guide to tell us what to see; other days we want to get lost on purpose. Maybe the best question is not “Which one am I?” but “What do I want from this trip?”

---

WORDS sights · pontos turísticos brochure · folheto route · roteiro tends to · costuma on purpose · de propósito

1. What is the main idea of the text?

(A) Tourists always spend a lot more money than travelers do on trips.
(B) Traveling by bus is a much better choice than flying to far places.
(C) Tourists and travelers travel differently, and most people are a mix.
(D) Famous places are not worth visiting anymore because they are crowded.

2. Why do many tourists book everything early?

(A) To save time and avoid stress during a short vacation.
(B) Because hotels are always cheaper in the winter months.
(C) Because they do not like to try the local food at all.
(D) Because travelers ask them to do it for the whole group.

3. What do many travelers buy before they leave?

(A) Tickets for every city on the whole trip.
(B) A guidebook and a tour of the main sights.
(C) A hotel room for each night of the trip.
(D) Only the first ticket, and they decide the rest later.

4. Why might a traveler take a slow bus?

(A) Because there are no planes that go to small villages.
(B) Because the trip itself is part of the experience.
(C) Because buses are always on time, unlike planes.
(D) Because tourists never use buses in other countries.

5. According to the text, the difference between the two depends on…

(A) how far you go from your home city.
(B) how much money you spend on the whole trip.
(C) how many countries you visit in one month.
(D) your attitude more than money or distance.

6. How does a traveler react when something goes wrong?

(A) He asks the tour guide to fix everything for him.
(B) He accepts that something may go wrong.
(C) He cancels the rest of the trip and goes home.
(D) He asks the hotel to give him his money back.

7. What does a tourist want, according to paragraph 4?

(A) The trip to match the brochure photos.
(B) To learn some words of the local language.
(C) To spend a whole month in one small village.
(D) To get lost on purpose in a new city.

8. What is the author's final message?

(A) Everyone should become a traveler as soon as possible.
(B) Tourists should stop booking tours before their trips.
(C) It is more useful to ask what you want from each trip than to pick a label.
(D) Guides are not necessary anymore in the modern world.
