READING

Ali, Today 12:32

I've been reading about a ghost ship called the Mary Celeste. In 1872, it was found floating in the middle of the Atlantic with no one on board. The crew had disappeared and were never seen again. Something strange must have happened to them, but nobody really knows what. Do you have an unexplained mystery story from your country?

Sonia, Today 12:40

I'm Scottish, and there are plenty of mysterious stories in my country. Everybody has heard of the Loch Ness Monster. There's also the Big Grey Man, a strange human-like creature that is supposed to live in one of our highest mountains. I guess it's not that different to the Yeti in the Himalayas. Few have seen it, and psychologists have suggested that those few may have been just tired or panicking because they were lost and cold. That sounds like a logical explanation to me. Even so, it's a great story.

Dani, Today 12:48

The amazing story of D. B. Cooper has always fascinated me. I've read loads of books on the subject. In 1972, he boarded a flight carrying a bomb, told the pilot to land at Seattle Airport, and demanded $200,000 in American currency, and four parachutes. The plane then flew south towards Mexico, but when it landed, Cooper, the money, and the parachutes had disappeared. He must have jumped, but did he survive? Nobody has ever found his body, but it may have been eaten by wild animals. And he can't have spent any of the money because the numbers on the banknotes were recorded. It really is a mystery.

Andrea, Today 12:56

I have an amazing story. Back in 1982, an underwater archeologist discovered the remains of 200 ceramic jars in Brazil's Guanabara Bay. I know that doesn't sound all that incredible, but it is. And here is why. The jars were from ancient Rome, and 2,000 years old. According to the history books, the first Europeans didn't reach Brazil until 1500. So, it raises the possibility that an ancient Roman ship may have sailed all the way to Brazil before them!

17 Read the discussion board. Match the writers to the questions they answer.

- 1 Who doesn't suggest a theory to explain the mystery they describe?
a. Ali b. Sonia c. Dani d. Andrea
- 2 Who admits to having been interested in their mystery for a long time?
a. Ali b. Sonia c. Dani d. Andrea
- 3 Who says that their mystery is similar to one from another part of the world?
a. Ali b. Sonia c. Dani d. Andrea
- 4 Who says their mystery is more unbelievable than people may first think?
a. Ali b. Sonia c. Dani d. Andrea
- 5 Who strongly doubts that their mystery is a mystery at all?
a. Ali b. Sonia c. Dani d. Andrea

18 Read the discussion board. Are the sentences Speculation or Fact?

Choose the best answer.

- 1 When the plane landed, Cooper, the money, and the parachutes had disappeared.
a. Speculation b. Fact
- 2 An ancient Roman ship may have sailed all the way to Brazil.
a. Speculation b. Fact
- 3 People who have seen the Big Grey Man may have been just tired or panicking because they were lost and cold.
a. Fact b. Speculation
- 4 An underwater archeologist discovered the remains of 200 ceramic jars in Brazil's Guanabara Bay.
a. Fact b. Speculation
- 5 D. B. Cooper may have been eaten by wild animals.
a. Fact b. Speculation
