

Say it the other way

GET & MAKE · FREE PRODUCTION · REWRITE · TURN THE VERB INTO THE SUBJECT

STUDENT

DATE

TEACHER

01 Before You Write · Part A reference

Two things to check, every time: the tense cue, and the phrase that becomes your new subject.

CUE WORDS	USE	MEANING
whenever / always / every time	makes / make	a habit, a repeated pattern
since / already / recently	has made / have made	a change that is still true now
a specific past moment (yesterday, last night, in 2019)	made	one completed event, finished next time / from tomorrow / if... will	will make	a prediction, something not yet true

WORKED EXAMPLE

Because of the constant rain, the streets have been dangerous all week.

1. Tense cue: "have been... all week" → present perfect → has made
2. Subject-to-be: "the constant rain" — the cause, moved to the front
3. Object + adjective: the streets / dangerous

→ The constant rain has made the streets dangerous.

02 Part A · Rewrite the Sentence

12 items

Rewrite as: subject + make + object + adjective. Red underline = tense cue; teal underline = becomes the subject.

01 Whenever there's rain at night, I feel sleepy.

02 My grandmother is always happier because of our Sunday calls.

03 Every time there's silence in the office after six, I feel calmer.

04 Since the new project, my colleagues have been more stressed.

05 My father has been healthier lately, because of his diet.

06 My sister has already felt more confident, since her promotion.

07 Last night, because of the strange noise, I felt nervous.

08 In January, after his terrible flu, my brother felt weak for weeks.

09 Because of the sudden storm, we were anxious for hours yesterday.

10 From tomorrow, because of the new schedule, the team will feel rushed.

11 Next time, because of the traffic, I'll probably be late again.

12 Because of the long meeting, my colleagues will be irritated by lunchtime.

NEXT PAGE · PART B →

Sometimes the cause isn't a simple noun — it's an action. Turn the whole clause into the subject.

WORKED EXAMPLE

My neighbour plays the piano at midnight.

1. Find the verb: plays
2. Remove the tense, add -ing: playing
3. The whole clause becomes the subject: My neighbour playing the piano at midnight
4. Add make + object + adjective

→ My neighbour playing the piano at midnight makes me angry.

The tense doesn't disappear — it moves onto make: plays (present) → makes · played (past) → made. This is the same shape as the participle clauses you already know — a clause with no tense of its own, working as a noun.

04 Part B · Turn the Verb into the Subject

8 items

Use the bracketed adjective. Keep the tense of the underlined verb — it moves onto make.

13 My neighbour plays the piano at midnight. [angry]

14 The teacher repeats every instruction twice. [confident]

15 My husband cooks dinner when I get home late. [grateful]

16 The airline cancelled our flight twice. [stressed]

17 My cousin studied in London for two years. [fluent]

18 The airline delayed the flight for six hours. [furious]

19 The editor changed the lighting in every photo. [bright]

20 My parents send me photos of their garden every week. [nostalgic]

NEXT PAGE · PART C, YOUR OWN SENTENCES →

Write one full sentence for each. Mix the two shapes. There is no answer key for this part — we read these together in class.

21 Something you do at the end of the day.

22 A person in your family.

23 A place in Japan you haven't seen for a long time.

24 A kind of weather.

25 Something in your kitchen you change before you cook.

26 A song, or a piece of music.

27 Something your teacher does in class.

28 Something that happens on the road when you travel.

29 A smell from your childhood.

30 Something you do to a room before guests arrive.

NEXT PAGE • ANSWER KEY →

Model answers. Other versions can be correct too — check the tense first, then the word order.

01 The rain at night makes me sleepy.

02 Our Sunday calls make her happier.

03 The silence in the office after six makes me calmer.

04 The new project has made them more stressed.

05 His diet has made him healthier.

06 Her promotion has already made her more confident.

07 The strange noise made me nervous last night.

08 His terrible flu made him weak for weeks.

09 The sudden storm made us anxious for hours yesterday.

10 The new schedule will make the team rushed.

11 The traffic will make me late again.

12 The long meeting will make them irritated by lunchtime.

13 My neighbour playing the piano at midnight makes me angry.

14 The teacher repeating every instruction twice makes us confident.

15 My husband cooking dinner when I get home late makes me grateful.

16 The airline cancelling our flight twice made us stressed.

17 My cousin studying in London for two years made her fluent.

18 The airline delaying the flight for six hours made the passengers furious.

19 The editor changing the lighting in every photo made them bright.

20 My parents sending me photos of their garden every week makes me nostalgic.