An environmental project

I am going to share the results of a school project that we did recently. We wanted to find out what kind of packaging people prefer when they buy something and whether they recycle different materials. We wondered what percentage of people take the time to organize their trash correctly in the different recycling bins at home each week.

As part of the project, we spent a Saturday morning in three different local supermarkets asking people about the household items they buy, the kind of packaging they prefer, and whether they use different recycling bins for different materials. This is what we found.

Nearly everyone said that they liked plastic packaging because it's easy to use. About half of the people we interviewed said that they always chose the cheaper option. Only a third of people chose eco-friendly packaging, such as cardboard or glass, because it was usually more expensive, or less convenient.

All the people interviewed said they have three recycling bins at home for separating their waste products, but around 20% of people said that they don't always separate the materials properly. About 70% said they recycle glass bottles and jars because they're easy to clean, but less than half of those people said they recycle plastic packaging. Only about 10% of people said they never recycle anything, and luckily, not one person said they don't care about the environment.

13 Read the article. Choose the best answer.

 - a. in their town b. near the recycling plant c. at the library
- 2 What did shoppers say about eco-friendly packaging?

- 3 What percentage of people have only one recycling bin at home?
 - a. 0% b. 3% c. 20%
- 4 How many people separate the materials in their trash properly?
 - a. less than half b. about half c. much more than half
- 5 How many people care about the environment?
 - a. everyone interviewed b. less than half c. not one person
