

Pick Your Project

Hand this notebook in one week before your presentation. Your teacher gives it back with notes, and then you present. Pages 2 and 3 show how Theo planned his.

TEXTO ENTREGUE

Quatro datas e o visto da professora. Este caderno é o seu registro do projeto.

1 · TICK YOUR TRACK

☐ TRACK A The Design Fair

Invent something that copies an animal or a plant to solve a real problem.

You bring: a model or a plan, made by you.

☐ TRACK B Behind the Scenes

Present a short film or video, real or planned: who directed it, who wrote it, where it was recorded.

You bring: a poster. A clip of up to 60 seconds is optional.

☐ TRACK C The Exchange Club

You have come back from an exchange trip. Tell us where you went and what you heard, smelled and tasted there.

You bring: a map or a page from your travel notebook.

2 · MY IDEA IN ONE LINE

3 · WHAT I AM BRINGING ON THE DAY

How Theo planned his

Theo picked Track A. Look at how short his notes are: not one full sentence in the whole plan. On the day, he looked at three words and built the sentence with his mouth.

TRACK A · THEO The Design Fair

Brings: cardboard model

Idea in one line	A wall that stops street water, copied from a beaver dam
1 · Where from	Animals since I was 7 · found beaver on a website · April
2 · Before	Walls = concrete · nobody copied animals
3 · Who did what	Model → my brother · beavers already studied → scientists
4 · What it is	Sustainable · cheap to repair · simple structure
5 · Voices	Ana → smaller · teacher → asked if I measured it
6 · No limits	3D printer → build it for real, in my street

Why this works

Every line is a reminder, not a sentence. Model → my brother is enough for Theo to say The model was built by my brother out loud. If he had written the whole sentence, he would have read it on the day, and reading is not presenting.

AND THIS IS WHAT HE BROUGHT

Theo's poster took three afternoons. Yours does not have to look like this. It has to be yours.

O pôster do Theo levou três tardes. O seu não precisa ficar assim. Precisa ser seu.

The same plan, other two tracks

Theo tried all three before choosing. The six moves never change: only what goes in them.

TRACK B · THEO Behind the Scenes

Idea

The Late Bus, 2-minute film made with my class

1 · Where from

Films all year in class · decided in May

2 · Before

Films had no sound · heavy make-up

3 · Who did what

Music → Ana · script done before we found a camera

4 · What it is

Small set, great atmosphere · costumes from home

5 · Voices

Ana → ending confusing · don't forget credits

6 · No limits

Drone → film the school from above

Brings

Film poster, drawn by me

TRACK C · THEO The Exchange Club

Idea

Three weeks in Toronto, staying with a host family

1 · Where from

Never been · cousin lived there 2 years

2 · Before

Host school = a farm · no uniform

3 · Who did what

Tower built 1976 · tourists climbing it since then

4 · What it is

Bright, freezing · food sweet and strange

5 · Voices

Host mother → maple syrup · student → asked about English

6 · No limits

One more month → learn to skate

Brings

Map with my photos glued on

And this is what he handed in

The notes were for speaking. This is the text Theo wrote the week after he presented, one for each track. Same information, now in full sentences.

As anotações eram para falar. Este é o texto que o Theo escreveu na semana seguinte, um por trilha. A mesma informação, agora em frases inteiras.

TRACK A · THE DESIGN FAIR

98 words

I have been interested in animals since I was seven. In April I found a beaver on a website, and I copied its dam: a wall that stops street water. People used to build walls with concrete, and they didn't use to copy animals. The model was built by my brother, and scientists had already studied beavers when I started. My wall is sustainable and cheap to repair. Ana told me to make it smaller, and my teacher asked me if I had measured it. If I had a 3D printer, I would build it in my street.

TRACK B · BEHIND THE SCENES

94 words

We have watched a lot of films in class this year, so in May we decided to make our own. It is called The Late Bus. Films didn't use to have sound, and actors used to wear heavy make-up. The music was recorded by Ana, and we had already written the script when we found a camera. Our set was small, but the atmosphere was great. Ana said that the ending was confusing, and she told me not to forget the credits. If we had a drone, we would film the school from above.

TRACK C · THE EXCHANGE CLUB

94 words

I had never been to Canada before, but my cousin lived in Toronto for two years. I stayed there for three weeks with a host family. My host school used to be a farm, and students didn't use to wear a uniform. The tower was built in 1976, and tourists have been climbing it ever since. The city is bright and freezing. My host mother told me to try the maple syrup, and a student asked me if people spoke English at home. If I had one more month, I would learn to skate.

Compare com a página 2: cada linha de anotação virou uma frase. É esse o caminho, e nunca o contrário.

My six moves

Notes, not sentences. Write the smallest thing that reminds you what to say, like Theo did on page 2. His finished text is on page 4.

1 Where the idea came from

How long has this been in your life? When did you decide?

2 How it was before

How did people do this in the past? What is different now?

3 Who did what

Who made the parts? What had already happened before you started?

4 What it is

Describe it. Why is it good, not only what is it?

5 The voices

Use page 6. Two of those sentences come here.

6 With no limits

Money, time and space are not a problem. What would you do?

The consulting round

In class, fifteen minutes. Ask three classmates and your teacher: what would you change in my project? Write their answer, then turn it into your own sentence.

WHO	WHAT THEY SAID OR ASKED	MY SENTENCE FOR THE PRESENTATION

How Theo did it

Ana said make it smaller. Theo wrote that down, then wrote his own sentence next to it: Ana told me to make it smaller. That second column is the one he used on the day.

THE TWO QUESTIONS I THINK MY TEACHER WILL ASK ME

You will not know the real ones. Guessing is good practice.

My model, poster or map

Draw it here, or draw the plan of the thing you are building at home. It does not have to be beautiful. It has to be yours.

BEFORE I HAND THIS IN

- ☐ I ticked my track and wrote my idea in one line
- ☐ All six moves have notes, and none of them is a full sentence
- ☐ I have four names on page 6, with their words in English
- ☐ My drawing is here, or my model is ready at home

Depois de apresentar, falta a página 8: o texto do seu projeto.

Now write it

You presented. You answered the two questions. Now turn your notes into a real text, 80 to 100 words. Hand this page in the week after your presentation.

Você apresentou e respondeu as duas perguntas. Agora transforme as suas anotações num texto de verdade, de 80 a 100 palavras. Entregue esta página na semana seguinte.

Why now and not before

Writing the text before you present turns the talk into reading. Writing it after is different: you already know what worked, what confused people, and what your teacher asked. Use that.

YOUR TEXT NEEDS

- ☐ At least 80 words.
- ☐ Something that was made, and who it was made by.
- ☐ What one person told you to do, or asked you.
- ☐ What you would do with no limits.
- ☐ Full sentences, with a capital letter and a period.
