READING

When I was a child, my favorite singer was Bruce Springsteen. I loved his music and listened to his CDs all the time. My mother is a piano teacher and a singing teacher, so she helped me learn to sing his songs.

We moved to France when I was twelve because my father started a job with a company in Paris. We lived there for ten years. I listened to lots of music by French groups: my favorite was a rock and roll group from Toulouse—they were great! I saw them five times when they were in concert in Paris. I also learned to play the guitar because I started a band with some friends. We weren't very good!

Music is still important for me. I always listen to music when I drive. I'm a taxi driver, and the music helps me relax in traffic. I sometimes play the guitar in a musical group, and I imagine I'm great like Bruce!
