

Simple vs Perfect Gerund

O gerúndio (-ing) não carrega tempo verbal sozinho. Às vezes o contexto resolve. Às vezes você precisa avisar explicitamente que a ação já passou, com o "having".

1 De Onde Vem o "Tempo" do Gerúndio?

Priya encontra a Marina na cafeteria, uma semana depois da grande apresentação.

Priya: You still thinking about that presentation?

Marina: A little. I keep thinking about not preparing enough, if I'm honest.

Priya: You could just say not having prepared enough, you know. Same idea, really.

Marina: Is that actually the same?

Priya: Almost. "That presentation" is already something specific we both know about, a moment already passed. The context makes the "before" obvious, even without "having." With verbs that point backward on their own, though, like "apologize for," "confess to," "blame for," you get that same effect built right into the verb, no matter the context.

Marina: So when do people actually bother with "having"?

Priya: When you want the order of events to be completely clear, or when context alone doesn't make it obvious. Especially in writing.

Marina: What about a gerund that isn't about the past at all?

Priya: Like "I'm keen on traveling without a plan." No hidden past there, that's just general enthusiasm. Compare that to "I'm sure of visiting Kyoto as a teenager, I have the photos to prove it." Same exact form, "visiting," but now it clearly points backward, because the timeline pulls it there.

Marina: So the gerund itself doesn't carry the tense.

Priya: Exactly. It just borrows time from whatever's around it.

O gerúndio simples (-ing) não tem tempo verbal próprio, ele é uma forma "atemporal". O tempo que a gente entende vem do verbo principal ou do contexto ao redor, não do próprio gerúndio.

SEM PASSADO ESCONDIDO

"I'm keen on traveling without a plan." — entusiasmo geral.

PASSADO IMPLÍCITO PELO CONTEXTO

"I'm sure of visiting Kyoto as a teenager." — "as a teenager" já aponta pro passado.

Alguns verbos e adjetivos com preposição já olham pra trás por natureza. Quando vêm antes do gerúndio, o "having" fica opcional, porque o sentido de "antes" já está garantido pelo próprio verbo: apologize for · confess to · blame (sb) for · accuse (sb) of · thank (sb) for · congratulate (sb) on.

Use o gerúndio perfeito, having + particípio, quando você quer deixar a ordem dos eventos explícita, sem depender do contexto pra isso. É mais comum na escrita formal, ou quando existe risco de ambiguidade.

A negação funciona do jeito de sempre: o not vai na frente de tudo, incluindo o "having".

She's tired of not having been told about the change.

ADENDO 2

Os Três Grupos

Já olha pra trás — "having" é opcional

O próprio verbo já garante que a ação veio antes. Pode usar gerúndio simples ou perfeito, tanto faz.

apologize for forgive (sb) for confess to blame (sb) for accuse (sb) of thank (sb) for congratulate (sb) on

Não olha pra trás sozinho — "having" ajuda a esclarecer

O verbo/adjetivo não aponta pro passado por natureza. Sem outra pista no contexto, o "having" é quem deixa claro que a ação já aconteceu.

proud of

interested in aware of ashamed of sure of confident about keep thinking about

Sem passado escondido — só gerúndio simples

Aqui não existe "antes" nenhum pra marcar, é atividade geral, gosto, opinião. Usar "having" soaria estranho.

keen on believe in look forward to good at capable of

Faz diferença usar "having"?

Decida: o verbo principal já deixa o "antes" óbvio, ou o "having" muda/esclarece alguma coisa?

1

1. Jonah apologized for _____ the deadline change earlier. (not / mention)

2

2. Marina confessed to _____ the morning meeting. (miss)

3

3. Priya is keen on _____ new neighborhoods on weekends. (explore)

4

4. The new intern was blamed for _____ the client's file. (lose)

5

5. Marina is proud of _____ calm during her first big presentation. (stay)

6

6. Jonah apologized for _____ the team sooner. (not / warn)

7

7. Priya confessed to _____ the numbers twice, just to be safe. (check)

8

8. Marina is interested in _____ with international teams during her career. (work)

9

9. The manager was accused of _____ about the delay and saying nothing. (know)

10

10. Everyone is looking forward to _____ the new office next month. (visit)

11

11. Priya is ashamed of _____ so quiet in her first few meetings. (be)

12

12. Marina keeps thinking about _____ more questions before signing the lease. (not / ask)

13

13. Jonah is aware of _____ the same scheduling mistake twice. (make)

14

14. The client thanked Marina for _____ the missing files so quickly. (find)

15

15. Marina is sure of _____ the keys somewhere in the office. (leave)

16

16. Doris forgave the building manager for _____ her spare key. (lose)

Traduza — escolha a forma certa

Traduza usando gerúndio simples ou perfeito, o que soar mais natural pro verbo em questão.

1

1. Ela vive pensando em não ter feito mais perguntas antes de assinar o contrato.

2

2. Ele se orgulha de ter ficado calmo durante a primeira apresentação.

3

3. Ela foi acusada de ter perdido os arquivos do cliente.

4

4. Priya é apaixonada por explorar bairros novos nos fins de semana.

5

5. Marina se interessa por ter trabalhado com equipes internacionais durante a carreira dela.

6

6. Jonah confessou não ter avisado a equipe sobre a mudança antes.

7

7. Tenho certeza de ter deixado as chaves em algum lugar do escritório.

8

8. Ela está cansada de não ter sido avisada sobre a mudança.

9

9. Eles foram parabenizados por terem organizado a mudança inteira sem problema nenhum.

10

10. Ela foi agradecida por ter encontrado os arquivos perdidos tão rápido.

11

11. Ele foi culpado por ter perdido o arquivo do cliente.

12

12. Eu acredito em economizar dinheiro antes de qualquer mudança grande.

13

13. Ela é capaz de não desistir mesmo nas piores situações.

14

14. Ele é bom em não deixar transparecer o nervosismo.

15

15. Ela está confiante de ter tomado a decisão certa.

16

16. Doris perdoou o síndico por ter perdido a chave reserva dela.

Precisa de "having"?

Leia a frase como ela está. O contexto já deixa claro que a ação foi antes, ou fica ambíguo?

1

1. Marina is proud of finishing the marathon.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

2

2. Marina is proud of running.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

3

3. Jonah is aware of missing the flight.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

4

4. Jonah is aware of missing his connecting flight to Tokyo last March.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

5

5. Priya is sure of leaving her umbrella somewhere.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

6

6. Priya is sure of leaving her umbrella at Marina's apartment on Friday.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

7

7. Marina keeps thinking about failing.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

8

8. Marina keeps thinking about failing that interview two years ago.

Needs "having"

Context is enough

Treino de ouvido

Na versão impressa, peça para o professor ou parceiro ler cada frase em voz alta. Decida: "having" ou não?

1

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

2

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

3

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

4

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

5

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

6

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

7

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

8

I heard "having"

I didn't hear "having"

Muda o sentido ou não muda?

Compare os dois pares. Elas comunicam a mesma coisa, ou o "having" muda o sentido?

1

1. "He apologized for missing the meeting." vs. "He apologized for having missed the meeting."

Same meaning

Different meaning

2

2. "She's proud of finishing the race." vs. "She's proud of having finished the race."

Same meaning

Different meaning

3

3. "She was accused of cheating on the test." vs. "She was accused of having cheated on the test."

Same meaning

Different meaning

4

4. "They confessed to lying." vs. "They confessed to having lied."

Same meaning

Different meaning

5

5. "She's interested in learning languages." vs. "She's interested in having learned languages."

Same meaning

Different meaning

6

6. "She's aware of missing deadlines." vs. "She's aware of having missed the deadline."

Same meaning

Different meaning

7

7. "They were congratulated on winning the award." vs. "They were congratulated on having won the award."

Same meaning

Different meaning

8

8. "He thanked her for helping." vs. "He thanked her for having helped."

Same meaning

Different meaning

APÊNDICE

Gabarito

PARTE A

1. not mentioning / not having mentioned
2. missing / having missed
3. exploring (só simples — Grupo 3, sem passado escondido)
4. losing / having lost
5. having stayed (Grupo 2 — sem "having" fica ambíguo)
6. not warning / not having warned
7. checking / having checked
8. having worked (Grupo 2)
9. knowing / having known
10. visiting (só simples — Grupo 3)
11. having been (Grupo 2)
12. not having asked (Grupo 2)
13. having made (Grupo 2)
14. finding / having found
15. having left (Grupo 2)
16. losing / having lost

PARTE B

1. She keeps thinking about not having asked more questions before signing the lease.
2. He's proud of having stayed calm during his first presentation.
3. She was accused of losing the client's files. (ou: having lost)
4. Priya is keen on exploring new neighborhoods on weekends.
5. Marina is interested in having worked with international teams during her career.
6. Jonah confessed to not warning the team about the change earlier. (ou: not having warned)
7. I'm sure of having left the keys somewhere in the office.
8. She's tired of not having been told about the change.
9. They were congratulated on organizing the whole move without a single problem. (ou: having organized)
10. She was thanked for finding the lost files so quickly. (ou: having found)
11. He was blamed for losing the client's file. (ou: having lost)
12. I believe in saving money before any big move.
13. She's capable of not giving up even in the worst situations.
14. He's good at not showing his nervousness.
15. She's confident about having made the right decision.
16. Doris forgave the building manager for losing her spare key. (ou: having lost)

PARTE C

1. Context is enough — "The marathon" é um evento específico e único — o objeto já garante que passou.

2. Needs "having" — Sem mais nada na frase, pode ser sobre correr em geral (hobby) ou uma corrida específica. Ambíguo.
3. Needs "having" — "The flight" sozinho não diz quando — pode ser sobre voos em geral. Ambíguo.
4. Context is enough — "Last March" já ancora a ação no passado. O "having" seria redundante.
5. Needs "having" — "Somewhere" não ancora nada no tempo. Ambíguo sem "having".
6. Context is enough — "On Friday" já é uma âncora temporal específica e passada.
7. Needs "having" — "Failing" sozinho pode ser medo geral de fracassar, não um fracasso específico. Ambíguo.
8. Context is enough — "Two years ago" já deixa claríssimo quando foi.

PARTE D

1. "He's proud of having won the championship." → I heard "having"
2. "She's sure of leaving the keys at home." → I didn't hear "having"
3. "They're aware of having made the same mistake." → I heard "having"
4. "I'm confident about winning this time." → I didn't hear "having"
5. "She's ashamed of having been so rude." → I heard "having"
6. "He keeps thinking about missing that flight." → I didn't hear "having"
7. "Priya is interested in having worked abroad." → I heard "having"
8. "Marina is proud of staying calm." → I didn't hear "having"

PARTE E

1. Same meaning — "Apologize for" já aponta pro passado sozinho (Grupo 1) — as duas formas dizem a mesma coisa.
2. Same meaning — "The race" já é específico, então o "having" só reforça — não muda o que está sendo dito.
3. Same meaning — "Accuse of" é Grupo 1 — as duas formas comunicam exatamente a mesma coisa.
4. Same meaning — "Confess to" é Grupo 1 — as duas formas comunicam exatamente a mesma coisa.
5. Different meaning — A primeira é sobre querer aprender (futuro/geral). A segunda é sobre já saber e gostar disso (passado). Sentidos bem diferentes.
6. Different meaning — A primeira é sobre um padrão geral (ela costuma perder prazos). A segunda é sobre um prazo específico que já passou. Sentidos diferentes.
7. Same meaning — "Congratulate on" é Grupo 1 — as duas formas comunicam exatamente a mesma coisa.
8. Same meaning — "Thank for" é Grupo 1 — mesma ideia nas duas formas.