

Find the pronoun. Find the base.

Two small decisions come before every question: who is the subject, and what is the verb without its endings.

O pronome decide se o verbo leva -s e se a pergunta usa do ou does. A forma base é o que sobra quando do, does ou did levam o tempo e o -s embora.

NAME: _____

DATE: ____ / ____

1 Names become pronouns Nome vira pronome

Six pronouns. Ask two questions: how many? And am I in the group?

Uma pessoa ou coisa, ou mais de uma? E você que fala está no grupo?

	ONE uma pessoa ou coisa	TWO OR MORE duas ou mais
I'm in it eu estou no grupo	I ● Quem fala.	we ● ● ● Tom and I · my friends and I Tem I no grupo: sempre we.
You're in it você está no grupo	you ⊙ Com quem você fala.	you ⊙ ● you and Sophie Mesma palavra no plural.
Neither nem eu, nem você	he ● a man or boy Tom · my brother she ● a woman or girl Sophie · my mother it ■ a thing, place, animal the hotel · the dog	they ● ● ● or ■ ■ Jake and Mia · the two hotels Pessoas ou coisas, tanto faz.

● me ⊙ you ● another person ■ a thing, place or animal

The owner is not the subject.

Mia's car é o carro, então é it. O nome com 's só diz de quem é.

2 The -s of he, she, it

O s da terceira pessoa

Only he, she and it take an -s. Look at the end of the verb and ask the questions from top to bottom.

A primeira pergunta que responder sim decide a grafia. Com I, you, we e they, o verbo fica como está.

ch the ending you look at y what goes out es what comes in Termina com som que chia, ou em o: entra es.

STATEMENT	QUESTION	NEGATIVE
She works late.	Does she work late?	She doesn't work late.
He studies at night.	Does he study at night?	He doesn't study at night.

You went home.	Did you go home?	You didn't go home.

To go back from the past, recognize it first.

No passado regular, desfaça a regra. Nos irregulares não tem regra: são pares que se aprendem juntos.
